Beatles Out of Security for 30 Minutes Leading Shriekfest

Police Keep Arena Policed by Officers; No Incidents

Left in Milwaukee were excitement, exhaustion, disappointment and satisfaction. Exhausted, pleased and lung worn were the 11,500 teen-agers who jammed the Milwaukee Arena for the Beatles' concert. Disappointed were the 700 fans left waiting at the airport terminal gate when the Beatles flew in and were whisked out the back way without so much as a chance to wave at the waiting worshipers.

Beatle Criticism Stung by a Beatle criticism was the Milwaukee police department. Paul McCartney told a news conference it was "a lousy trick" by the police to start the Beatles on the way to their hotel without a chance to "drive past the kids." He added, "It was a dirty, lying policeman who said it was our idea."

Jack Lennon missed the conference because of a sore throat. But he donned the Beatles' blue silk uniform and pulled on the traditional high-heeled boots for the quartet's march onto the stage to sing and play and wiggle and hop in the way that bedlam is born.

Amplified Sounds Their much amplified sounds never did successfully rise above the frenzied screams that surged through the hall. The largest part of the crowd stood to welcome the Beatles and remained on its feet to shriek and see. The followers broke their constant wail only to shout "No, No, No," when the Beatles said their next selection would be the last.

But the crowd had been witness to what it wanted to see and hear.

Lennon sparked the performance with funny gestures.

Soviets Softpedal Togliatti Manifesto

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Initial reports from Communist parties inside and outside the Iron Curtain indicated today that a virtual declaration of independence from Moscow by the late Italian Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti was either played down by official newspapers or simply ignored.

Communist Hungary and Bulgaria maintained official silence concerning the manifesto, which Togliatti wrote just before his fatal illness last month. Hungarian and Bulgarian parties support Premier Khrushchev's plans for a Communist summit conference in Moscow to discuss the Soviet-Red Chinese dispute. Togliatti opposed the meeting.

Khrushchev Says Chinese Are 'Wreckers'

Charges Peking Trying to Divide Communist World

P R A G U E, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Premier Khrushchev, in another scathing attack on Peking, says Red Chinese leaders deliberately are trying to keep the Communist world divided.

In a speech here Friday night, he repeatedly referred to the Chinese as "wreckers" and accused them of "playing into the hands of the imperialist forces."

"It is well known," he thundered, "that the leaders of the Chinese Communist party do not want to remove differences."

Chides Others This was uttered in connection with a statement which chided certain other Communist leaders reluctant to attend a worldwide communist conference in Moscow to settle the Peking-Moscow feud.

His statements were regarded by political observers as being partially directed at the big Italian Communist party, which Friday released a manifesto of independence.

The manifesto was written by Italian Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti just before he died last month in the Soviet Union. Togliatti suggested that the world's Communist parties should have the freedom to make their own policies.

Pro-West Candidate New Chile President

Chilean Is Unknown to Americans

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Eduardo Frei, the soft-spoken senator who won a landslide victory in Chile's presidential election Friday, is relatively unknown to Americans.

But U.S. officials breathed a sigh of relief when the six-foot politician defeated Communist-backed Salvador Allende. Frei will be sworn in in two months as the head of traditionally democratic Chile.

Though a reform-minded leftist, Frei has an avowed pro-U.S. and pro-West foreign policy.

Was Discouraged Active for 30 of his 53 years in politics, Frei (pronounced frai) refused to become discouraged in 1958 when he lost in his first bid for the presidency. He polled only 20 per cent of the vote and placed third.

President Jorge Alessandri, head of a right-of-center coalition, won. But on Nov. 4, Frei will replace Alessandri, who was ineligible to run again.

A former university professor of economics, Frei has firm views on how Chile's underdeveloped economy should be run. He wants to move ahead as quickly as possible in building the economy, but doesn't expect miracles overnight.

"Naturally, we look forward to operating our own natural resources. But everything should be done in stages," he has said.

Frei favors state control and believes that Chile eventually should nationalize foreign-owned enterprises.

Plan Forced Integration At Meridian

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — Civil rights leaders planned today to take legal action to force desegregation of white grade schools here after school officials turned down the first Negro enrollment attempts.

A spokesman for the Council of Federated Organizations, which sponsored Friday's desegregation move by two dozen Negro children, said it would file a federal suit.

The Negroes — including Ben Chaney, 12, brother of slain civil rights worker James Chaney — tried to enroll at five white schools. Authorities at each of the schools met them and read a written statement: "I cannot accept you in this school."

Meridian schools are not under specific federal court order to desegregate. Four other public school systems in the state are, and three of them are desegregating. In the fourth, Clarksdale, no Negroes tried to enroll.

Two White Men Acquitted in Georgia Killing

DANIELSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Two white men have been acquitted in the night rider slaying of Washington, D.C., Negro educator Lemuel Penn. However, they still face federal conspiracy charges under the new civil rights law.

Joseph Howard Sims, 41, and Cecil William Myers, 25, heard the verdict Friday night after a jury of white men deliberated slightly more than three hours.

A gasp and murmur arose from relatives and friends. Superior Court Judge Cary Skelton rapped for order. Relatives of the two men wept. Sims and Myers hugged their wives. They were surrounded by well-wishers.

Sims and Myers now face federal charges of conspiring to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate Penn and two companions.

Miller Charges Humphrey Has Radical Record

GOP Hopeful Opens Campaign in His Hometown Today

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller, formally opening his campaign for the vice presidency, charged today that Democratic vice-presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey has a record that is "clearly one of the most radical in Congress."

In his prepared text, Miller devoted much of his speech to an attack on Humphrey's connection with Americans for Democratic Action, which he termed "unquestionably the most influential organization in our nation's capitol attempting to subvert and transform our government into a foreign socialistic totalitarianism."

Humphrey was one of the founders of ADA, which backs what it considers liberal causes. He served as its chairman in 1949-50 and has been a vice chairman since then.

Goldwater Invited Presidential nominee Barry Goldwater headed the list of Republicans invited to this western New York city for the hometown kick off of Miller's campaign.

Miller quoted President Johnson's statement that Humphrey is "the best man in America" to be vice president and added: "If Hubert Humphrey, with the program he advocates and supports is the 'best man,' then Lyndon Johnson is the 'worst.'"

Miller said that during Humphrey's 15 years in the Senate, "he has voted the official ADA line on 191 occasions and has bolted on only three occasions."

ADA Stands He said the ADA advocates "diplomatic recognition of Red China," "the admission of Red China to the United Nations," "a total abandonment of the Panama Canal," "that we recognize the permanence and legitimacy of communism in East Germany," "that we readmit Cuba to the Organization of American States and welcome (Cuban Premier Fidel) Castro into the Alliance for Progress" and "that we must repeal every single piece of internal security legislation" and "abolish the (House) Committee on Un-American activities."

So far the committee has interrogated a participant, the leader and an organizer of the trip that 84 young people made to Cuba this summer, defying a ban by the State Department. All three repeated the same things they had said many times before in news conferences in Havana, New York and elsewhere and continually refused to say much else.

When asked to discuss the intricacies of the trip's financing, their own personal finances, or the part other people played in the trip, each witness invoked the 5th Amendment to the Constitution which provides protection against possibly self-incriminating testimony.

Eduardo Frei Landslide Setback to Communists

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — the night, singing and dancing in the streets. Frei, a senator, will take the government reins Nov. 4 for a six-year term. He succeeds Jorge Alessandri, barred by the constitution for seeking re-election.

Nearly complete unofficial returns: Frei — 1,463,535 Allende — 975,690

Third Candidate Julio Duran, candidate of the Centrist Radical party, was far behind with 128,350.

A record of Chile's more than 2.5 million voters cast ballots in the bitterly contested election. It marked the first time a South American nation had freely chosen a "democratic leftist" with views similar to European Socialists.

The outcome came as a relief to U.S. officials in Washington, who feared the emergence of a Castro-like regime in Chile. U.S. aid to Chile is $150 million a year.

Two U.S. companies, Anaconda and Kennecott, account for 90 per cent of the nation's vital copper output.

Although a leftist, Frei is expected to maintain Chile's close ties with the United States. He favors more state control over foreign-owned companies but wants to encourage more U.S. investments.

U. S. Officials Relieved at Frei's Victory

Believed Allende Win Would Have Endangered Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials greeted with relief and delight today the landslide victory of Sen. Eduardo Frei in Chile's presidential election.

They had feared that a comparable win by Frei's chief rival, Communist-backed Salvador Allende, could have led to a bigger setback to democracy and gain for communism in this hemisphere than the Red takeover of Cuba.

Frei is leftist by U.S. standards. But he has avowed a pro-West pro-U.S. foreign policy and a domestic reform program that relies on democratic methods.

Avowed Marxist Allende, an avowed Marxist, campaigned on an anti-U.S. pro-Castro Communist foreign policy. At home, he wanted to socialize the economy, including seizure of the big U.S. copper firms there.

High-ranking Washington authorities kept close watch Friday night as returns came in.

Pre-election advice from the U.S. embassy in Santiago was that Frei was likely to get 49 to 54 per cent.

New Racial Riots Flare In Singapore

Malaysia and Indonesia Move Closer to War

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — New race rioting flared in Singapore today as Malaysia and Indonesia moved closer to open war.

The rioting, blamed by some Malaysian officials on Indonesian agents, has left nine dead.

The king of Malaysia signed a decree today which proclaimed the entire country a national "security area." The decree permits local authorities to impose curfews and ban unlawful assembly and gives police sweeping powers.

Sukarno Vow In Indonesia, President Sukarno, who has vowed to "crush" Malaysia, held another emergency meeting with his top advisers. The official "Indonesian news agency Antara said he will make an important announcement soon about the "present critical situation."

A special meeting of the U.N. Security Council will be held in New York next Wednesday to consider Malaysia's charges that Indonesia is committing aggression against the federation. Malaysia has accused Indonesia of backing recent smallscale invasion attempts.

Indonesia's armed forces have been placed on a state of alert.

In Singapore, just across the Malacca Straits from Indonesia, Malaysian officials battled against more rioting which some suspected was inspired by undercover agents from Indonesia.

Phillies Increase NL Lead With 5-3 Win Over Giants

Boyer's Homer Gives Cardinals 5-3 Win Over Cubs; Pirates Cop

BY DICK COUCH

Gene Mauch didn't need an edge — his flying Phillies have been giving him plenty to work with. But the National League leaders' canny pilot has come up with a new slant anyway. He's become clairvoyant.

Mauch must have had it figured beforehand when he dropped Johnny Callison, the Phils' most valuable veteran to seventh in the batting order for Friday night's series opener with San Francisco.

What else but a carefully contrived script could have made Callison Johnny-on-the-spot with the key hit in a four-run eighth inning rally that stunned the Giants 5-3 and increased the Phils' first place margin by another big length.

Mauch may explain that a left-hander — rookie Dick Estelle — started for the Giants, that Callison would feel less pressure in the lower part of the order, etc. But any pennant-crazed Philadelphian will tell you the manager had the out come up his sleeves all the way.

Tie-Breaking Single

Callison delivered his tie-breaking single moments after Frank Thomas had tied the count with a two-run homer off lefty Billy O'Dell. Mauch probably had that one figured last month when the Phils spirited Thomas away from the New York Mets for the express purpose of hitting home runs against southpaw pitching.

While the Phillies were kicking the Giants into fourth place, 7 1/2 games off the pace, Milwaukee's Tony Cloninger dropped runner-up Cincinnati 6 1/2 lengths back with a three-hit 2-0 victory over the Reds.

St. Louis topped the Chicago Cubs 8-5 on Ken Boyer's three-run homer in the ninth and took third place, one percentage point up on the Giants. Pittsburgh shelled Houston 10-2 while the Mets nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5 for a doubleheader.

Clark Anderson Slams 247-604 at Lakeroad Lanes

Gene Kohl fired a 225 singleton. Bob Marsh jolted a 254 game and Jack Witt posted a 603 trio to divide Marathon Men's League honors. Marsh closed with 580.

Other high totals included Clarence "Moe" Coenen 230-595, Roger Petersen, 245 - 595, Len Dema 245-570, Jim Holcomb 577, Jim Haack and Dick Jensen 573, Leo Makowski 225-569 and Al Bryzcki 566.

Claude Charron hit 232 - 580 in the Sportsman's circuit. Clarence Korth fired 564 and John Pingle had 557.

Gladys "Babe" Harding crashed a 224 single in the More Fun Ladies wheel. Dorothy Herzfeldt notched a 190 solo.

Ken Harrelson hit two homers for Kansas City while Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard connected for the Yankees.

Killbrew's 45th

Minnesota added to its league-leading home run total with Harmon Killebrew's 45th. Tony Oliva's 29th and 30th and Zoilo Versalles' 18th. Killebrew's came with two on while Oliva hit his with Versalles aboard each time. Felix Mantilla socked his 25th for Boston.

Dave Wickensham won his 17th game against 10 defeats, allowing the Senators three hits in eight innings. Fred Gladding pitched the ninth for Detroit. The game's only run came in the second inning when Don Demeter doubled, moved to third on a single by Bill Freehan and scored on Norm Cash's sacrifice fly.

Hook Recalled By Milwaukee

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves moved to bolster their pitching staff Friday by recalling veteran Jay Hook from their Denver farm in the Pacific Coast League.

Hook, a former Milwaukee sandler hurler who formerly played with Cincinnati and the New York Mets, had a 5-6 record at Denver, where he was used both as a starter and in relief.

The 27-year-old right-hander was acquired May 8 in the deal which sent shortstop Roy McMillan to the Mets.

A boardwalk serves as main street for this southeastern Alaska village of 150 fishermen and natives. There are no roads. It has, or had, three vehicles — a truck, automobile and motorcycle.

Joe York, 65, tooled along on his motorbike Monday night. He lost control and veered into Billy Worrell's truck. He suffered minor injuries. The motorbike was a total loss.

With only two vehicles left in town, pedestrians don't worry so much.

NEW LONDON — With only five returning lettermen the outlook for the Washington High School football team is not exactly promising. The Bulldogs had a 3-5 record last year.

Coach Larry Graves and his assistant Bill Beyer, however, are looking forward to the coming campaign with a bit of optimism. The 39 boys out for the team, and the size of some of the members competing for the 1964 version of the Bulldog team is the greatest cause for their optimistic outlook.

Xavier Win-Streak Comes to End, 26-12

Xavier to 143 — probably the lowest yardage total in Hawk history.

Although the Hawks were very much in the running during the first half, which ended 6-6, their attack was sporadic and their relative inexperience showed in the final two quarters. They were unable to produce a breakthrough threat to replace the now-graduated, 3-year pace-maker, "Rocky" Bleier.

McCoy's touchdown passes to Lowe, a rangy end, covered 80 yards, 6 yards and 25 yards, respectively. McCoy also hit half-back Jerry Jilbert with a 4-yard scoring aerial.

Xavier's touchdowns came on an 8-yard, Paul Rechner-to-Mike Heideman pass and on a 3-yard Paul Springer run.

The crowd of approximately 2,500 was given a graphic sample of what kind of an evening it was to be on the very first scrimmage play of the game. McCoy faded back from his own 20 and lofted a long pass to Lowe, who took it in around midfield and galloped the rest of the way untouched. The extra-point try by Dan O'Gorman failed.

The stunned Hawks recovered well from this jolt, and they limited the visitors to only 41 more yards during the remainder of the first half.

Halted by Fumble

The Hawks' first serious attempt to manufacture a tie equalizer was halted by a second-period fumble. They had moved 77 yards from their own 13-principally on a 15 - yard Springer run; a 17-yard pass, Rechner to Springer; and a pair of 15-yard penalties—when Gary Gunderson fumbled on the 10 and Jordan's Mike Kelley recovered on the 14.

Heideman's interception on the Jordan 45 created a second opportunity for the Hawks, and this time they didn't let it slip away. Rechner fired three bulls-eye roll-out passes to Heideman during the 45-yard drive, and the final one—covering 8 yards—was hauled in by the junior wingman as he crossed the goal line. Colin Smith's placement kick for the extra point failed 10 seconds before the half ended.

The Hawks received the second-half kickoff but had to punt after three unsuccessful plays. The Milwaukee school then took as complete charge of the show as Xavier had consistently done during its 31-game victory

Clintonville Opens Against Merrill '11'

Ellis Has 17 Lettermen on Hand; Three Candidates Seek QB Job

CLINTONVILLE — Veteran Coach Tony Ellis has 62 football candidates at Clintonville High School.

Ellis boasts 17 returning lettermen from his '63 unit. Ellis could field veterans at most positions with the exception of the quarterback spot.

The Trunkers open the season at home against Merrill, Sept. 11.

Jerron Dieck and Tom Richardson, both non-lettermen, appear to have the inside track on the starting signal - calling duties. Another possible quarterback is Kurt Holm. Holm lettered as a wingback in '63.

Ellis pointed out that the defense should be quite solid with a host of veterans to choose from. The offensive end positions and the quarterback spot are the big questions.

Other veteran backfield men include Gerry Dieck, fullback and halfbacks Bob Korb and Don Thompson. Thompson and end Jim Henrickson are the team's co-captains.

Henrickson is joined at end with veterans Terry Nelson and Bob Hedtke. Dan Hedtke returns to handle the centering chores with John Sparks backing him up.

Dennis Breitrich, Ed Wedde and Bob and Bruce Schmidt are lettermen at the guard spots.

Roy Schultz, the biggest man on the roster, at 6-5 and 235 pounds, is a veteran tackle. Dale Harbath, Jay Johnson, and Bob Janusch are also available at tackle.

The schedule:

Sept. 11—Merrill (H).
Sept. 18—Shawano (A).
Sept. 25—Two Rivers (H).
Oct. 2—Kaukauna (A).
Oct. 9—Kimberly (H).

Pete Ward Has 4-for-5 in His Best Game

CHICAGO (AP) — The good field-to-hit Chicago White Sox changed the script Friday night when they committed five errors but used three home runs to come from behind and hammer the Cleveland Indians, 6-5, in 10 innings.

The uphill battle lifted the Sox into a virtual first place tie with the Baltimore Orioles who dropped a 7-1 decision at Los Angeles. The Sox trail Baltimore by one percentage point.

The five errors kept the Sox behind the Indians throughout the game but the slugging proficiency of Pete Ward enabled them to keep coming back.

Ward, enjoying one of his best games, doubled home a tying run in the fourth, singled home another tying run in the seventh and slammed a homer to tie the game in the 10th after the Indians had moved ahead 5-4.

Wrong-Field Homer

No sooner had Ward crossed the plate, when Moose Skowron slammed a wrong-field homer into the right field stands to win it.

The homers by Ward and Skowron weren't the only big injuries," said Lopez. "We'd be blows in Chicago's attack. Ronin from front if we had him all Hansen also homered, tying the game in the eighth.

"I've said along that we're my best games," said Ward, going to break out with some of these days," said Sox teammate Gary Peters last Manager Al Lopez. "Maybe this year is the start of it. Maybe this League Rookie of the Year game will give us the charge we need to win a pennant."

NEW YORK (AP) — This year may go down as the one in which the Yankees lost the pennant but the biggest story in New York continues to be the fantastic attendance figures piled up by the amazing Mets.

Another whopping turnout — 45,065 paid — watched the 10th place Mets split a Friday night doubleheader with the seventh place Los Angeles Dodgers.

You'd have thought first place was at stake at the fan frenzy whipped up by the Mets' four-run rally in the eighth inning of the nightcap that produced a 6-5 victory after the Dodgers had won the opener 3-0 behind Don Drysdale's three-hitter.

Tommy Davis' miff of a fly ball by jockey Klaus with two out and the bases loaded allowed the final three runs to cross the plate.

The Mets now are within less than 49,000 of the New York Giants' largest home attendance in history. They have attracted 1,551,518 paid admissions in 56 home playing dates. The Giants' best was 1,600,793 in 1947.

With nine home dates remaining, the Mets are a good bet to top the all-time record for a National League team in New York history.

The Dodgers, when in Brooklyn, set the city's attendance record with 1,807,526 in 1947 when they won the pennant. The Dodgers also drew 1,796,824 when they finished second after losing the playoff to the St. Louis Cardinals, and 1,633,747 in 1949 when they won the pennant. Those are the only annual attendances higher than the Mets' current figures.

Drysdale's fifth shutout of the season was his 16th victory and fourth over the Mets. He has won eight straight over the Mets since losing 6-3 on Aug. 24, 1962, his only lifetime loss to the tailenders. He has beaten them 12 times.

The second game victory was only the second for the Mets in 13 meetings with the Dodgers this year. Oddly enough, that is the same number of times the Mets beat the Dodgers in each of their first two years in the National League. The over-all figures are 43-6 in favor of the Dodgers.

Maury Wills, with a steal in each game, boosted his league leading stolen base total to 45. Willie Davis also stole two bases, his 28th and 29th of the season, but was nipped attempting to swipe home in the sixth inning of the nightcap.

FIGHT RESULTS

MIAMI BEACH — Jose Torres, 157, New York, outpointed Gomo Brennan, 160, the Bahamas, 10.

MELBOURNE — Bob Allotry, 116, Ghana, outpointed Billy Brown, 116, Manila, 12.

Fox Valley Jews to Usher in New Year Sunday at Sundown

One of the world's most ancient New Year's observances begins at sundown Sunday when the portentous note of the shofar (traditional ram's horn) ushers in the year 5725 for Jews here and throughout the world.

The High Holidays, or Ten Days of Penitence, begin with the New Year (Rosh Hashanah) and end with the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur) Sept. 16. The entire period, as described in the first five books of the Old Testament, is a time of reflection, self-appraisal and spiritual reawakening.

According to Scripture, the fate of those whose deeds have been weighed and found wanting hangs in the balance during this period. However, by prayer, penitence and charity, these individuals can perhaps "avert" the severe decree" and be inscribed in the Book of Life for the coming year.

On Yom Kippur, a time of prayer and fasting, the decree is sealed and the Book is closed for another year.

Traditional Greeting

The traditional Rosh Hashanah greeting is, "May you be inscribed in the Book of Life for a happy and prosperous New Year."

The High Holidays are the most solemn observance in the Jewish religious calendar. The sounding of the shofar which begins Rosh Hashanah is a symbolic call to repentance, so that all who hear can join the community in prayer. Jewish congregations in Appleton and throughout the world will offer prayers for peace and human brotherhood and prayers of repentance in New Year services Monday and Tuesday.

Orthodox and conservative Jews observe Rosh Hashanah, the Hebrew term for the new year, for two days, ending at sundown Tuesday, while reform Jews observe it from Sunday evening until Monday evening.

Creation of Universe

The day is traditionally considered by Jews as the anniversary of the creation of the universe, and therefore it is celebrated as the start of a new year, although it falls in the seventh month of the ancient Jewish calendar.

In addition to prayers and penitence, the day is observed by eating honey and sweets at meals, symbolizing the hopes for a sweet year ahead.

Yom Kippur, the most sacred day of religious observance for Jews, will climax the sacred period. It will begin at sundown Sept. 15 and continue through the following day.

Zion Temple Congregation will hold its services in Harper Hall of the Lawrence University Music-Drama Center. Rabbi Simon Cohen, librarian at Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, Ohio, will come to Appleton for the fifth year to conduct the High Holiday services. Soloists will be John Koopman and Mrs. E. A. Fetting, accompanied by Mrs. Koopman at the organ.

Evening Services

The Zion services on Rosh Hashanah will include an evening service and sermon at 8 p.m. Sunday and a morning service and sermon at 10 a.m. Monday.

Shabat Shuvah — the Sabbath during the High Holidays, considered a very hold Sabbath — will be observed at an evening service at 8 p.m. Friday in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Sumner Richman, 1625 Ravinia Place. The annual meeting and election of officers will follow the services. Dr. Richman is currently president of the congregation.

The Kol Nidre service and sermon will begin the observance of Yom Kippur at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 15. Services on Yom Kippur, Wednesday, Sept. 16, will include a morning service and sermon at 10 a.m., an afternoon service at 2 p.m., a memorial service (Yizkor) at 4 p.m. and the concluding service (N'ilah) at 5 p.m.

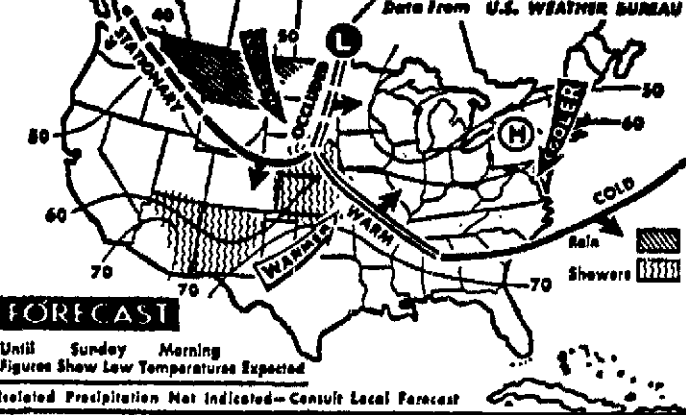

During the holy days Zion Congregation will begin using a new Ark, which contains the Talmud, the sheepskin scrolls on which are written the five books of laws from the Old Testament. The new Ark replaces the original one which the congregation has used for over 100 years.

Hebrew Services

High Holidays services at Moses Montefiore Synagogue will be conducted by Rabbi Gilbert Silverstein, with Dr. Theodore Kohn as cantor.

The Rosh Hashanah observance will begin Sunday evening, with an evening service in Hebrew at 7:30 p.m. and a late service and English sermon at 8:30 p.m., and continue Monday and Tuesday will include a morning service in Hebrew at 8 a.m., the shofar service at 9:45 a.m., a sermon at 10 a.m., English services at 10:20 a.m., the Musaf service in Hebrew and English at 11 a.m., and an evening service in Hebrew at 7 p.m.

Holiday Weather Outlook For Nation Is Favorable

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fine holiday weather brightened summer's final fling throughout much of the nation today.

Clear skies covered many areas as Americans took to the highways, byways and playgrounds for the long Labor Day weekend.

There was cloudiness in the Northeast and in scattered parts of the southern Rockies, the Central Plains and the southeastern Gulf Coast.

Overnight, some locally moderate showers dampened areas of the Northeast, the Southeast and the South Central United States. Nearly three-fourths of an inch of rain fell in Millinocket, Maine.

The national outlook was good, the weather bureau said, with showers expected in parts of New England, the South Central states and in the southern Rockies. Snow was predicted for Montana's mountains.

Pro-Chinese Red Speculates On Possible War With Russia

Quotation Passed Off-Handedly At Moscow Roundtable Session

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

Moscow radio has quoted a pro-Chinese Communist, evidently British, as speculating on the possibility some day of war between Red China and the Soviet Union.

The quotation was tossed off in passing, in a rather offhand way, by one of the participants in a regular Moscow radio roundtable on current events.

The roundtable member, named Malevsky, attributed to a Communist named Evans the remark that he could envisage Red China at war in Indochina, ing this story to illustrate the policy "which the Chinese leaders are now conducting."

"To show this convincingly and clearly, let me quote this example. Let us say that as a delegate from Britain in the Hotel Diamond in Tokyo, where the so-called Tokyo conference took place, there turned up the adventurist Evans, expelled from the Communist parties of Britain, the United States and Australia," Malevsky said.

"Now, on Chinese money, he publishes the gutter paper Vanguard. He said to me: 'Just wait. The Chinese will make their own atomic bomb. They will blow the imperialists into powder and you at the same time.'"

"Soviet correspondents heard the open avowal of the Chinese program against imperialism, as he put it, which can envisage a war by China in Indochina, a Chinese war against India, against the United States, and lastly a war against the Soviet Union."

Even a mention that war is against the United States, against India and "lastly war against the Soviet Union."

The remark, broadcast this week in the Russian language to Soviet citizens, comes at a time when the Chinese-Soviet argument is moving out of the realm of ideological debate and reaching proportions of a head on clash between the Peking and Moscow governments.

Territory Claims

In the background are sweeping Chinese territorial claims against Moscow and Western intelligence reports of a Red Chinese terror campaign in at least one Chinese province against Communists sympathizing with Moscow.

The idea of war between Red China and the U.S.S.R. seems distant, despite their battle for influence over Asia and over the world Communist movement. But the fact that it has been mentioned to the Soviet citizenry indicates it is a nagging future possibility.

Malevsky's identification of the course of the war prediction seemed vague. It came during discussion of what he called "splitting, base actions of the Chinese lackeys and their masters from Peking" during a recent Tokyo antinuclear conference. Malevsky said he was there at the time and was relay-

Gasoline Price War Comes to End

Friday Marks Close Of Two-Month Battle In Neenah-Menasha

MENASHA—A gasoline price war which has raged in the Twin Cities for close to two months ended abruptly shortly after noon Friday.

The end came less than 24 hours after several dealers slashed prices to a record low for the year, 24.9 cents per gallon.

Friday afternoon prices slowly climbed to normal at most service stations. Normal prices are 31.9 cents for cutrate regular gasoline and 33.9 cents for premium regular gasolines.

The war followed what has become a normal pattern of ending when the 24.9 cent mark is reached. The mark is the cutoff between profit and loss in gasoline sales.

Second Price War

Few stations followed example in the latest price cut which station operators say was initiated by cutrate dealers. Premium dealers blame cutrate dealers for the war in the first place. Twin City dealers blame Appleton for the price war.

It was the second time stations have initiated a price war this year. It probably will be the last since wars usually come during the summer and rarely in the winter.

The latest battle began in late June following a two - month quiet period in which prices remained at normal levels. Until Wednesday prices remained at 25.9 and 26.9 cents for cutrates and 28.9 for premium gasolines.

Motorcade Through Green Bay, Arena Program Being Scheduled

Special to The Post-Crescent

GREEN BAY — Attendance at ceremonies in which Gen. Dwight Eisenhower will dedicate the Eisenhower locomotive at the National Railroad Museum near here Sept. 18 will be by invitation because of limited facilities, museum officials say.

However, plans approved Thursday by committee chairmen setting up the event call for public appearances by the former president later in the day.

Tour of Museum

From there, Gen. Eisenhower will be taken to the museum where he will be given a tour by museum officials. The museum was conceived by Maj. Gen. Carl Gray Jr., Eisenhower's director of military transport in World War II. The site was dedicated in Gray's memory in 1959.

After dedication ceremonies are concluded at 11 a.m., Gen. Eisenhower will precede in a motorcade to Hotel Northland. Details of the route are being worked out with county and city traffic officials.

The general will appear in a public program at 1:30 p.m. in the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena. A crowd of 6,500 is anticipated.

Plan Talks On Reducing Curve in Road

Cemetery Group Wants to Cut Mishaps in Area

An officer of St. Mary Cemetery Association said Friday the association plans to discuss with state highway authorities proposals to have County Trunk BB near the cemetery straightened out to prevent further accidents in the area.

Lester Balliet, treasurer of the association, said seven accidents this year have been reported at the northeast corner of the cemetery near the county trunk road.

Extensive damage to wrought iron fences and shrubbery resulted from the accidents, but there have been no serious injuries. However, Balliet said cars might drive through the fence and strike one of several nearby stone monuments, causing serious injury or death.

Latest Accident

County police are investigating the latest accident near the cemetery where a car drove off the road, hit a fence then drove back on the highway. Damaged was about 35 feet of fencing. Balliet said damage was estimated at between $300 and $500.

Thursday the Outagamie County Safety Council went to the cemetery and found the area has ample warning signs. The speed limit is 35 miles an hour and the curve could be made easily by cars traveling up to 50 miles an hour, members estimated.

Members of the committee watched several cars go into the curve and said most drivers can handle the "jog" with no difficulties.

Altered for Speeders

Balliet said the problem arises in the early morning hours when drivers leave several nearby beer bars on County Trunk BB and head for Appleton.

County police in the past have been alerted to reports of speeders in the area during early morning hours and patrols have been stepped up.

Possibilities of changing the sharp curve to a more gradual curve were discussed. Highway commissioners in Outagamie and Winnebago counties, both of which share responsibilities for the roadway, could not be reached for comment.

Cupid Tobi Sparks 'Just a Bit of News'

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

One day this week a small bit of news reached the desk of our news editor and he forwarded it to me to write it into acceptable form for presentation to our readers.

"This item," he wrote, "is for you."

The news was in the form of a tip that Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hoelzel of 1041 Gillingham Road, Neenah, are preparing to depart on a four-weeks visit to Neheim-Husten, West Germany.

That, of course, would be the full extent of the news... except that I know more about it than our bustling news editor, and I even know more about the background of the little story than Ray Hoelzel. Furthermore, today I tell all:

I met Ray Hoelzel in 1960 when he accompanied me on the European journey which was sponsored by the Post-Crescent and which was, as you may remember, a very successful tour. We all had a fine time and we have all—since then—become fast friends and have had many pleasant meetings together.

One day while a member of the tour moving into the beautiful seaside city of Nordvik, Holland, the hotel manager had bad news for me. There had been a mix-up in our hotel reservations and we would not all be able to remain together at his hotel. He had, however, arranged that the few members of the tour that he could not accommodate could stay at another hotel not far away.

I was obliged to select members of the tour who would have to be divided from us. I chose Ray Hoelzel because he was a good sport and because I believed he would not be too upset by the separation. I was right in my judgment. Ray accepted without enthusiasm, but he did not complain.

Next morning when I had a chance to chat with him, I asked him how he had liked the other hotel.

"Not bad," he said. "I met some nice people."

Although he did not then tell me so, one of the nice people he had met was a pretty German girl, Miss Roselotte Block. We will hear more about her.

After our return to the United States, I saw Ray occasionally. He talked casually about heading back to Europe, but I counted it only his enthusiasm for that interesting country. One day Ray came to my house for a visit. While he was there I introduced him to Tobi.

Tobi is a little man. A figure of a man, that is. He is carved out of a dark-stained native mahogany wood. He has large mother-of-pearl eyes and the carving is a little crude, but it was done by a native of Tobi Island, a wee thing in the Micronesian chain.

Tobi was given to me long ago, before even I had a thought of marrying ANYBODY. Because he is primitively attractive, I kept him for these many years.

Tobi has a purpose in life. The natives consider him to be a symbol of the wedding. Ray studied him with casual interest, but I knew from experience that Tobi would do the work he is made for.

Over more than twenty-five years, I have shown Tobi to a number of friends. And over these same 25 years Tobi's mystic magic has worked. Every friend who ever handled Tobi (I have kept track) soon married and had children. Me, too.

One day in 1962, Ray dropped into the house for a visit. "I'm going to Europe," he told me.

I was surprised because I thought that he had been doing wishful thinking.

"What are you going to do there?" I asked.

"Get married," he said.

"To who, for Pete's sake?"

"Well," he said slowly, "you remember when I stayed in that other hotel in Holland?"

"Yes."

"Remember I told you I had met some nice people?"

"Yes."

"Well..." he said.

In May of 1962, Ray Hoelzel and Miss Roselotte Block were married at Dusseldorf. In due time they returned to the United States where Ray again took up his work-a-day duties at the Engraving Plant of Marathon Division of American Can Company.

In due time also, Tobi struck again. Little Henry, now almost a year old, was born Oct. 6.

So, please, Mr. News Editor, I will simply say that Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hoelzel of Neenah will spend four weeks at Neheim-Husten, West Germany, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erich Block.

Then, if I may, I'd add that they'll be back home Oct. 4, two days before little Henry's first birthday, and that about that time I've got a small birthday present for Henry—a carved figure.

'Irritating' Smell Subject of 1963 Petition by 93 Residents

CHILTON — A smell which has irritated residents here for years will be alleviated this month, a spokesman for Chilton Malt Co. said Friday.

The odor, subject of an October, 1963, petition presented to the city council, is created in one of the final roasting processes in malt production.

A total of 93 city residents signed the 1963 petition which said the smell caused "people to become ill and nauseated."

Machinery which will alleviate the smell through a burning and water filtration process was designed by an Eastern firm and will be installed soon.

Representatives of the firm came here earlier this summer and conducted tests to find a possible solution.

Although a nontoxic odor, many residents have complained of it being irritating. Aldermen and Mayor Harry Thompson have on several occasions questioned the health and sanitation committee as to what was being done about it.

At the presentation of the petition then Mayor Elmer Daun turned the problem over to the committee for study.

The company spokesman said many tests had been conducted by various firms, but they failed to come up with an adequate solution to the problem.

Woman Carries on 'Crusade'

NEW LONDON — A one-woman battle to fill New London's city nurse vacancy is being carried on by Ald. Mrs. Grace Stern (3rd).

She has contacted State Public Health officials, doctors and the Outagamie and Waupaca County nurses trying to enlist support.

Mrs. Stern says each year the post has been vacant the city's communicable disease has risen. The post has been vacant four years.

Reaction to the proposal for a city-school nurse has been bitter from some quarters, apathetic from others and favorable from only about half the people contacted in the New London area.

The most often asked question here is, "What part of the salary will the city and school district have to pay the nurse?"

Wants Special Meeting

Mrs. Stern has written a letter to the board of education in which she asked that a meeting be held at which she can explain the importance of a nursing program. She hopes this will lead to a general meeting between the groups to decide what portion each would pay the nurse.

Tuesday's city council meeting was a "give and take affair" on the feelings of hiring a nurse. Mrs. Stern read a letter written by Waupaca County Nurse Martha Higl, explaining reasons why the city should have a nurse.

The letter stated: "In the infant and pre-school conferences, the nurse instructs parents in their home regarding the physical and mental health of the young. As a result of this program, it may be expected that the child entering school two to six years from now may enter with fewer defects and a better organic development."

Communicable disease control is an important part of the public health nurse program. Objectives are:

— Assist parents in securing proper medical supervision of their children.

— Assist teachers in recognizing symptoms of communicable diseases so early exclusion may be effected.

— Visit homes and emphasize need for isolation to prevent disease.

Activity Period Initiated for Chilton High Organizations

CHILTON — Principal John Sandburg has initiated an activity period to give students at the high school an opportunity to participate in school clubs and organizations.

Each Tuesday between 9:52 and 10:17 a.m., club and organization members are excused from classes to attend meetings.

The first Tuesday of each month class meetings are scheduled; the second Tuesday, student council and the Hillcrest, the student newspaper, third, "C" Club and Future Homemakers of America, and fourth, library club and National Honor Society.

Sandburg said other organizations and groups not included on the schedule can call meetings by special request, as long as there is no conflict with community.

members attending two meetings.

More Participation

Sandburg said it was the program's aim to encourage more students to participate in school activities.

Guidance direction at the school has taken a new turn with the creation of home rooms. Each teacher is assigned 27 students who will be advised on grades, study habits and compiling of schedules.

Sandburg said home room dates are regularly scheduled and called by the administrative staff.

The first meetings were Tuesday. Teachers informed students of school policies, rules and what was expected of students as part of the school community.

Power Firm Drops Rate for Heating

State Still in Running as Site Of Laboratory

U. S. Health Unit Will Not be Built Near Washington

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The future location of the multi-million dollar U.S. Environmental Health Laboratory, much sought after by Wisconsin, has been thrown open to any area "more than 50 miles distant from Washington, D.C."

This language was inserted at the request of House conferees in the conference report on current appropriations for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and knocks out suburban Beltsville, Md. as the site for the proposed laboratory.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, a member of the House conferees who held out against the Senate provision that the health laboratory be built at Beltsville, said he would continue to work for its placement in Wisconsin, and if that were not possible, at least in the Mid-West.

Planning Money

The congressman noted that $1 million had been earmarked for "planning" the facility, but that no money had been included for purchase of land on which it would be built. The future site of the laboratory has been the center of controversy for more than two years, and because of this, no funds for its planning were included in the final conference report until Friday.

Also of interest to Wisconsin in the conference report on new appropriations, according to Laird, was one which would allow sheltered workshops to be built for either handicapped workers or retarded children, with federal funds matching local and state money. Previously, the general accounting office had ruled that Wisconsin would have to pay the entire cost of construction workshops erected in Racine, Eau Claire, and other cities, Laird said.

Wisconsin-Michigan Move Gets PSC Approval; Will Cut Cost Of Electricity Used in Homes

A new rate which will reduce the cost of electricity for home or water heating was announced today by Wisconsin Michigan Michigan Power Co.

The new rate was approved Friday by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission. The same rate is being filed with the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The new rate is expected to cut the cost of heating a home electrically by 20 per cent. About 100 home owners who presently heat their homes electrically are expected to gain from this new rate initially.

"However," J. H. McLean, a spokesman for the company, said, "We expect many persons planning new homes or apartments may take advantage of the incentives under this new rate."

Save $45

McLean cited a typical home owner in Appleton with a 1,000-square foot house who has been paying $220 a year to heat electrically. Under the new rate, the cost would be reduced to $175, a savings of $45. The home owner who qualifies under the new rate would get similar savings for other uses of electricity such as air conditioning.

The rate also makes available quick-recovery water heating. The rate features 24-hour heating with high-recovery heating elements, assuring the home owner an unlimited supply of hot water.

About 50 per cent of the 20,000 residential customers who now use electricity for water heating also will realize savings in electric costs under the new rate. Average savings are estimated at about $5.60 per year per home owner.

Presently, home owners who use electricity for water heating are served under two rates, and electricity is measured through two meters. Electricity under the water heating rate is offered for an "off-peak" period of sixteen hours per day at a lower cost than the regular residential rate.

Single Rate

Under the optional rate approved Friday, all uses of electricity will be combined under a single rate. Time restrictions will be removed from the water heating meter and elements will operate whenever thermostats call for heat. Quick-recovery water heaters with high-speed heating elements may be installed. Those home owners who will achieve savings under the new rate will be notified and transferred automatically. However, to determine which home owners will save money under the new rate, each customer's account will have to be analyzed. McLean said although detailed analyses will be done by computers, the changeover will take several months.

Some Reporters Are Getting That 'Old Time Religion'

Coverage of Religious Group Leads to Inside of Churches

BY JULES LOH

A lot of reporters are getting religion these days whether they want to or not. It's a sort of religion many know about only vaguely. It's that old time religion many know about only enough for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Covering this group which is headed by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. invariably leads reporters inside the Deep South's Negro churches. It can be quite an experience. Within the dingy walls of the clapboard church houses, as the Negroes call them, is a side of American culture almost totally unknown to the split level society.

Somewhat a hundred years of history, never really understood before, can flash with new clarity through one's mind in the space of a single hand clapping, sweltering, foot-stomping prayer meeting. Never was this more true, in my own case, than one recent night in the new St. Paul A.M.E. church on Bridge Street in St. Augustine, Fla.

At one point during the meeting, when the singing suddenly welled up rapturously from three score throats and hearts, I turned to Marshall Frady, a Newsweek correspondent who was sitting with me off to one side.

"My God Marshall," I said, "have you ever heard anything like this?"

Goose Bumps

"Look," he said, extending his arm in answer. His skin was bristling with goose bumps.

There was a quality to the singing that made you want to smile and weep at the same time. For the congregation it could be consoling or challenging, depending on the need.

Technically, the blend of voices was as polished as though they had rehearsed many times, and perhaps they had at previous meetings. But there also was a spontaneity about the singing which made it unmistakably a prayer. By no means a performance. It was moving, gripping, honest.

Surely the setting had something to do with the mood and the effect.

St. Augustine is a well tended museum of crisp lawns and ancient monuments, but in this part of town there were only dark streets and sagging porches needing paint. Even the Spanish moss dripping from the gnarled oak branches, a lovely banal sight in the tourist part of town, only seemed to emphasize the dreariness in the neighborhood of the New St. Paul A.M.E. church.

Negro Church

It was a typical Negro church. Worn pews fanned out in three directions from an old pulpit, which was red with thick coats of shellac. Behind the pulpit was a neon cross and the words, spelled in neon lights, "This do in remembrance of me." Neither the cross nor the words of Christ at the Last Supper were lit this night.

The floor was linoleum cracked in places and the walls were a washed-out pink with paint peeling in spots. The windows were stained glass purple and burgundy and yellow and they admitted precious little air into the stifling room. One of them was stuck closed. Two overhead fans turning languorously, barely stirred the tur-gid air: not of much use were the cardboard hand fans with a picture of two well-scrubbed Negro children on one side and an undertaker's ad on the other.

Fig Tree

Outside one window a fig tree just coming into fruit provided a pungency to the heady atmosphere of the church. Two Negro boys were perched in its branches peering wide-eyed and silent from the darkness.

The Negroes filed in slowly and took their seats. They began first with the old slave songs, chorus after melancholy chorus.

"Nobody knows the trouble I've seen, nobody knows but Jesus—"

As the church filled the singing grew more spirited. They sang not to gentle Jesus meek and mild but to the God who delivered the Israelites. On one wall of the church was a picture of Moses bearded and white who led his people from bondage.

"I'm going to sit at the welcome table one of these days hallelujah!"

Welcome Table

"I'm going to sit at the welcome table one of these days—"

Hands began to clap, faces began to glisten and shirts and dresses began to darken under the arms and across the backs and pulses began to throb and toes and heels began to tap rhythmically.

Anyone unsure of the mind of the Negro during the St. Augustine struggle had only to hear the singing and listen to the amens of the old men and women and the young boys and girls as their preacher preached to them.

"Y'all better trust in the Lord," he told them. "He's the only one you can count on."

"You can work in the white folks' kitchens and eat the white folks' food and take home Mr. Charlie's wore out shirts and Miss Ann's wore out dresses but the white folks ain't gonna help you when the Klan's a-riding."

"Amen!"

"So y'all better straighten up and ask the Lord to help you."

"All right! Amen!"

Then the singing would begin again. Soft, sweet, loud, pulsating, sincere.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

"Three things are necessary for the salvation of man: to know what he ought to believe; to know what he ought to desire; and to know what he ought to do."

—St. Thomas Aquinas

St. Thomas Aquinas would never have become the great theologian and philosopher of the Middle Ages had he not lived by that which he wrote. Born in 1225 into a noble family in southern Italy, he studied at the University of Naples and there came to know the Dominicans, a newly founded order of preachers and teachers. So impressed was he with their work that he himself became a Dominican, to the horror of relatives who thought it a disgrace for the son of a nobleman to wear the habit of a poor friar.

His mother and sisters tried to dissuade him, and his brothers took even more forceful methods. They abducted him and took him to the family castle where he was stripped of his habit and imprisoned in a tower for almost two years. They even sent a beautiful girl to destroy his virtue.

His sisters, finally realizing their efforts were in vain, helped Thomas escape by lowering him from the tower in a basket to waiting Dominican monks who escorted him to safety. Going to Paris, he became a great scholar and a man dedicated to the love of God and the eternal search for the divine truth.

Pastors Told to Work With Psychologists

Methodist Ministers Hear of Common Problems During Lecture in Appleton

"Clergymen and psychologists share common clinical territory and frequently need the help of one another," Wisconsin Methodist ministers were told this week.

The ministers gathered in First Methodist Church here for the annual Wisconsin Area Pastors' School. The school ended Friday.

Delegates heard Dr. Richard R. Teeter, an associate professor in the Marquette University School of Medicine and a staff physician in Milwaukee Psychiatric Hospital.

The relationship between religion and psychiatry, Dr. Teeter said, is they are concerned with the nature of man rather than the nature of the universe.

Cooperative Study

He suggested further study in the common problem of solving emotional problems be undertaken cooperatively by ministers and psychologists.

Dr. Teeter, in his lecture — one of a series on "Man and the Contemporary World"—discussed the emotional development of the infant and the father's relationship to him, mental illness, areas of psychiatric treatment and the cause of anti-social actions in apparently normal families which come as a surprise to both pastor and psychologist.

The Rev. Gerald Bouressa, assistant pastor of Holy Name of Jesus Catholic Church, Kimberly, and laymen from that congregation gave a "demonstration" mass during evening services Thursday.

Robert Valentyn, Kimberly, provided commentary as a choir sang special mass music written by students and based on popular and folk tunes.

Students at Study Week

42 From Xavier Participated in Christian Life Talks

Forty-two students from Appleton's Xavier High School attended a study week on the Catholic apostolate entitled "Youth is Made for Heroism."

held this summer on the campus of St. Mary's College, Winona, Minn.

The study week gathered together more than 600 people from the Midwest, 450 students and 150 adults, to explore the implications of Christian living in student life.

The program included general assemblies and workshops studying in depth such topics as "Adolescents in Perspective," "Freedom for Students," "Formation of Adults in the Apostolate" and "The Psychology of the Formation of Attitudes."

Two Panels

Two panels composed of five students from Xavier and one from Davenport, Iowa, discussed "Personal Growth and Development in the Apostolate" from the student's point of view.

The students from Appleton Xavier were Robert DeBruin, Robert Zwicker, Jerald Seljan, Timothy Garvey and Ronald Bixby.

Another Xavier student, Mark Dresang, who recently entered the novitiate of the Christian Brothers, gave a general assembly address entitled "Christ in the Student."

Chairmen Listed

The study week was sponsored by the Office of the Lay Apostolate, Davenport, Iowa. The Rev. Louis M. Colonnese, director, was honorary chairman. The Rev. Gerald J. Kraus of Aquinas High School, Fort Madison, Iowa, and Brother Lawrence, F.S.C., Xavier High School, were co-chairmen of the Study Week with Sister Ann Marita, C.H.M., of Davenport, Iowa, as coordinator.

The Most Rev. Edward A. Fitzgerald, Bishop of Winona, addressed the group on what the Vatican Council wishes from the student apostolate.

To Your Good Health

Color Change in Eyes, Hair, Skin Can Occur

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a man had lovely brown eyes when a boy, and now they're ugly gray or hazel, what accounts for the fading?

—MRS. B. W.

A quirk of the pigment or coloring. This man started, as do all babies, with blue eyes.

Then, dependent both on hereditary and Dr. Molner racial characteristics, varying amounts of the pigment accumulated in the eyes.

Sometimes as a person grows older, the shift of pigment reverses. That is, color tends to leave the iris of the eye, leaving what you call "ugly gray," or "hazel."

For whatever reason, men are more likely than women to have this change occur as they grow older.

Pigments play an interesting role in the eyes, hair and skin. Graying of hair is a gradual loss of pigment. Tanning of the skin by the sun is a heavier accumulation of pigment which, of course, gradually leaves again with lack of exposure to ultraviolet light.

Dear Dr. Molner: Will you explain diverticulitis? Four months ago I suffered severe gas pains. My doctor put me on a soft diet; X-rays showed diverticulitis. I imagine it is a mild case.

—D. W.

Diverticulosis and diverticulitis are very common disorders, but with reasonable caution on the patient's part, they usually can be kept under control.

Because of so many questions concerning the subject, I have written a booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You." To receive a copy, send 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of Appleton Post-Crescent.

Rep. George F. Senner, D-Ariz., asked the young men if he had contributed any money to incite a street riot after the passage of the civil rights bill.

expectations. In Washington, cautious forecasters had given Frei just a narrow edge — and kept fingers crossed against the outcome going the other way.

Frei's triumph apparently assures that Chile will continue to be a prominent member of the inter-American system and a supporter of the Alliance for Progress program of social and economic reforms with U.S. aid. The candidate supports both policies.

Aid to Chile

The United States is assisting Chile at the rate of $150 million a year.

A victory by Allende, who proposed restoring relations with Cuba, could have set off a major reappraisal of U.S. policy toward the major Latin American countries — especially if Allende had started seizing the approximately $1.1 billion worth of U.S. property there.

Even with Frei in the saddle, U.S. policymakers anticipate some possible friction in U.S.-Chilean relations as he pursues his ambitious plans for economic reforms.

These could involve a larger bite on U.S. copper interests than the Chilean government now takes.

However, such abrasions are considered normal fare in American relations with developing countries. For the time being, U.S. diplomats are happy to bask in the glow of the election returns.

Jewish New Year Begins Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — Jews throughout the world gather at sunset Sunday to observe Rosh Hashanah, the start of the Jewish new year, 5725.

The observance in synagogues — opening with the traditional wail of rams' horns — introduces the 10-day high holiday period of penitence that ends with Yom Kippur. That day, Sept. 16, is for fasting and atonement.

The Jewish new year is a period of prayerful self-examination.

U.S. Credit

Frei hopes to win substantial credit from the United States and West European nations to help attain his economic goals. He has said he wants more U.S. investment in Chile.

He was against Chile's diplomatic break with Cuba last month but is not expected to try to restore relations.

"The matter is now out of our hands," he says, describing the Castro government as a "totalitarian regime that has overrun human rights."

As a Roman Catholic and the father of seven children, Frei is as much a family man as he is a politician. He married 27 years ago into a socially prominent Santiago family.

He and his wife still live in the same house, a modest structure, comfortably yet simply furnished in Santiago's suburbs.

"I like this house and don't plan to leave it," Frei says. "If I become president, I will not live at La Moneda (the Chilean White House)."

"That big, rambling building is no place for a family."

Death of Cardinal Brings Speculation Of Papal Consistory

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The death of Clement Cardinal Roques in France Friday night has raised speculation that Pope Paul VI soon may call his first consistory to create new cardinals.

Cardinal Roques' death reduced the membership of the College of Cardinals to 77, the lowest number since 1959.

The last consistory was March 19, 1962, when Pope John XXIII raised the college to 87, largest number in the history of the Roman Catholic Church.

GOP Candidate For County Clerk Hurt in Accident

OSHKOSH — Mrs. Myrtle E. Lee, 415 E. Forest Ave., Neenah, a candidate for the Republican nomination for county clerk in the Tuesday primary election, was injured Thursday morning in an accident involving two cars and a truck.

She was taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital in Neenah after receiving emergency treatment at Mercy Hospital here. She was reported in satisfactory condition Friday with injuries to her right ankle.

The accident happened about 10:45 a.m. at U.S. 45 and County Trunk J when a truck driven by Claud Martin, 43, Hermitage, Tenn., going west on Trunk J, crossed U.S. 45 and was struck by the southbound car driven by Mrs. Lee. At the same time, the truck was hit by a northbound car driven by Thomas Johnson, 24, 3379 Pond du Lac Road, Oshkosh.

Martin was driving a new garbage truck for delivery to Hermitage. He told county police he was unable to stop for the intersection.

Johnson and a passenger in his car, Clarence Groschel, 622 E. Irving Ave., received cuts and bruises. Martin suffered a minor arm injury.

Take Risk When It's Necessary

Only one bridge player in a thousand would make game in the hand shown today, but the principal of play is very simple. It's just a matter of seeing what you need and then taking a chance.

When the hand was played, West opened the queen of diamonds and continued the suit until South ruffed the third round. South laid down the ace of spades and winced when West discarded a diamond. Shaking his head dolefully, South led a heart to dummy's queen and returned the ten of spades. East played low, and the ten held the trick. Declarer then led another spade from dummy to win a finesse with the jack.

Now South led his other low heart. West thoughtfully put up the jack, and dummy's ace won. Declarer was in the dummy for the last time and couldn't handle the clubs. When South led a club from dummy and finessed with the jack, he was allowed to win the trick. He could draw the last trump but sooner or later had to lead clubs from his own hand, allowing the opponents to take two club tricks. Must Think South must stop to think when the bad trump break shows up. He must get to dummy once for a spade finesse and twice more for club finesses. He therefore needs three entries to dummy — and they are all there in hearts, provided that South is quick to make up his mind. Declarer must begin the hearts by leading a low heart and trying a finesse with dummy's ten. When this finesse

Registrations to Be Accepted for Boys' Brigade

NEENAH — Registration for the Boys' Brigade is at hand and letters have been sent to last year's members in regard for registering for the coming season, according to Jack Casper, Brigade coordinator. The Brigade has grown to such an extent that the top number of boys that can be handled was reached last year, according to the coordinator. Any boy who was a Brigader last year and wishes to renew his membership must be at the Brigade building at 7 p.m. Wednesday. This year's crop of sixth graders are advised not to be at the building Wednesday, as they are already signed for the season. Their first meeting will be Oct. 5, according to Casper. A meeting is planned for the 11th and 12th graders at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. This will be to line up the leadership program and the possibility of co-leaders. Boys finding it impossible to be at the building on the designated date, may call the coordinator or if they intend to participate in the program.

GOOD POSTURE

Figure improvement starts with good posture. So pull in your tummy, tuck in your buttocks, raise your chin and you'll look better immediately. And another way to keep reminding yourself of good posture is to practice this exercise three times daily. Stand about six inches from your bedroom wall, arch back; extend arms down, flex your fingers a few times then relax them. Now, with arms and hands rigid, press hands back against wall and tense your chest and shoulder

The Ailing House Varnish Spatters Removable

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN Q: Some spar varnish was spattered on a washable cotton chenille bedspread. How can I safely remove the varnish spots?

A: Try scraping off as much of the varnish as possible with a dull knife blade, after softening the deposit with petroleum jelly or lard. Then launder bedspread, after applying benzene (being careful of the fire hazard) to any varnish remaining in material.

Q: A relative brought with her, from Europe, a small old carved wood block that will make an interesting wall decoration. The wood is very dry and looks as if no finish was ever applied to it. What do you recommend?

A: Apply a couple of soaking coats of hot linseed oil, so the oil can penetrate into the wood and prevent it from becoming so dry it may crack. Remove all surface dust first, then apply the first coat of oil and allow to remain for about an hour. Then wipe off all excess to avoid gummy deposit forming. Remove later. Allow a week for drying, then repeat treatment. Heat oil in a pan of water, not over the direct flame.

Your Problems

Dump Truck Clashes With Fox Cape, Satin Shoes Woman Says

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I want to make it clear that I am not a teenager. I'm a 33-year-old widow and the mother of three.

I've been going with a man who owns a sand and gravel business. Last night we had a date to attend a church supper. I had my hair done in a shop and dressed up rather special for the occasion. I wore my fox cape and satin shoes. When I got outside and saw his dump truck I was shocked. He said, "I sold my car and don't plan to get another one until the new models come out."

I am not a snob, Ann, but I don't think a dump truck is proper transportation for middle-aged people. If you say it is, then I'll ride in it and keep quiet. Yes or no? — Not Ready to be Dumped Yet

Dear Not Ready: For a picnic or to the beach — maybe. But not to a church supper, with satin shoes and a fox cape yet.

Tell your friend that for social evenings you'd prefer to take the bus or perhaps double with friends who have a sedan — until the new models come out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 15-year-old girl who let a boy go too far. I felt so guilty I told my mother. She promised not to say anything to my father but she broke her word and told him anyway. Now I can't go any place but to church and to school for three months.

Believe me, Ann, I've learned my lesson. I realize how lucky I was not to have gotten into serious trouble. I will never be so foolish again. I also know the boy didn't care about me or he would not have been so thoughtless about my future.

Please help me. If I am punished for three months I'll lose my mind. — The Ghost

Dear Ghost: Keeping a teenager locked up for three months only makes him or her resentful and determined to get even when he is sprung. Teen-agers who are made to feel they are no good and not to be trusted, will behave in a sneaky, unworthy manner. I favor parole rather than solitary confinement — with the following rules: (1) You should be permitted limited outside activities. (2) Your parents should know where you are, and with whom, at all times. (3) You should honor a strict curfew. P.S. I've gone to bat for you. Now don't let me down.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is a widow in her early sixties. She decided recently to make her home with me. I am a widow, too, and have no income except my weekly salary. For years I've longed to take a nice vacation but could never afford it.

Mother has a small pension and a modest income from social security. She buys groceries occasionally, but has never offered to help defray household expenses.

My evenings are spent chauffeuring mother and my car expenses have tripled. But how can I tell her to take a bus when my car is out in front of the house?

This new living arrangement is keeping me broke. How shall I tell her? — Dorothy

Dear Dorothy: In plain English, unless she understands another language better.

It would be different if your mother had no income, but since she has money coming in, she should offer half of her income and carry her share of the load.

Liquor can ruin your mind, your body and your life. To learn the boobytraps of teen-age drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Heloise:

My refrigerator has a small freezer. For about a year now I have been taping a piece of paper on the freezer door, with a list of the contents of the freezer. I add to the list after I have shopped, and a nd cross off items as they are used. In this way I always know what foods I have without rummaging through the entire freezer. I also know what to buy each week after consulting the list.

When steaks are on sale, and I don't have any, I stock up on them. If I see that I have a sufficient supply, I pass up that sale. This applies to all frozen foods.

After defrosting, I list the contents on a fresh piece of paper, and attach it to the door with tape.

This hint can be applied to any type freezer. Just put the list where it is not seen by others unless the refrigerator or freezer is opened.

Buckley Raps Lorge Record

Says Senator Shows 'Lack of Interest' By His 'Absenteeism'

George Buckley, Appleton, candidate for the Republican nomination in the 14th State Senate District election, attacked voting and attendance records of his GOP primary opponent Wednesday night.

Speaking in the Outagamie County Youth for Goldwater, Buckley said Gerald D. Lorge, Bear Creek, missed 114 roll call votes during the last legislative session.

Buckley said "this compares to two, three and four missed roll call votes by several other state senators. Twenty - three others," he said, "with much better attendance records, show Lorge's lack of interest and absenteeism in your behalf."

"Deciding Vote"

Buckley also blamed Lorge's senate vote for the passage of the withholding tax. "With the senate deadlocked on the question," he said, "Lorge voted yes." The vote was 20-19, he told the group.

In addition, Buckley accused Lorge of weakening proposals on allowing counties to modernize government operation.

"Instead of trying to help large counties like Outagamie get the county executive it so badly needs and wants," Buckley said, "Lorge so weakened the bill with amendments and riders that it lost."

George L. Buckley

Elect a Dedicated Republican

Buckley has had 17 years of government experience from the local level to the state level. An attorney, Buckley is a former Assistant Attorney General who majored in Political Science and Government in college. Buckley is a dedicated Republican who believes in promoting individual responsibility. Don't let your government tell you what to do — you are the government — you tell your government what you want it to do.

State Bonding Report

Several Republican members of the state legislature who have distinguished themselves during their statehouse careers for a consistently conservative attitude on fiscal affairs have recently declared their conversion to the view that the state must modify its rules on long-term debt for capital improvements.

This represents progress in the recognition of one of the stern realities of the times in state government, however reluctantly it has come.

It may be a sign that the next state administration in collaboration with the next state legislature will face up to one of the aspects of state capitol finance that has been strangely ignored by press and public, as well as by political representatives, in spite of the overwhelming evidence of changing circumstances.

The state constitution explicitly prohibits long term state bonded indebtedness. That law was inherited from our frontier political ancestors, who judged according to the needs of their times, and more particularly, according to the unfortunate debt experiences of some of the older states in the East and Middle West. It has no relevance today. We have long since invented subterfuges to achieve bonding in spite of the prohibition, and subterfuges of the kind that ought to make us blush in a civic sense in spite of the fact that they have been approved technically by the courts.

We are in fact selling state bonds in multimillion dollar installments. Thus the literal prohibition against debt means very little in restricting our financial policy. We are very likely borrowing as freely as we would if the constitutional fathers had not thought to impose upon us what they felt would be an anti-debt rule.

But we are paying a heavy penalty, or more precisely, a series of penalties. The debt we are piling up in Madison is being recorded without a full realization of the facts by the public which is ultimately responsible for the cost of those bonds. Indeed, the conservative on financial matters might wonder, observing recent proceedings, whether we are borrowing more liberally today under the debt prohibition clause than we might under a new law permitting debt under stated conditions—such as the approval of each bond issue by the legislature in a record vote.

There is no present limit to the amount of state debt that can be arranged. A constitutional amendment authorizing full faith and credit bonds would be pegged to a formula—probably the tax valuation of the state. Finally, the current bonds are creating a larger obligation for interest payments than the financial authorities assure us would be required with regular state bond issues.

Safety Rating Should be Improved

Although the City of Appleton had a fatality-free record in 1963, the National Safety Council apparently decided this city and its citizens are not doing enough to obey traffic laws and promote safety.

So, it was disappointing recently when the Safety Council announced that Appleton received a 60 rating for last year—seven points lower than in 1962.

Traffic accidents were up in 1963 as were non-fatal injury accidents.

In addition to making several suggestions to city officials for helping improve the city's record, the Safety Council took its annual "crack" at downtown angle parking, indicating that it should be eliminated wherever interfering with traffic movement.

Mr. Kennedy and New York

The bold challenge of tradition and practice in politics represented by the candidacy of Robert Kennedy of Massachusetts and Virginia for a U. S. Senate seat in New York introduces a fascinating element into the art of politics in America.

We are not among those who are inclined to dismiss Mr. Kennedy as a "carpet-bagger" who will be spurned by the electors of the Empire state. We have observed the political style of his family sufficiently to conclude that this extraordinary young man, who was his late brother's principal manager and advisor in practical political matters, would not have made this choice without a reasonable assurance that he had a chance to win. The distress of Sen. Keating about the Republican prospects in New York this fall undoubtedly figured in young Mr. Kennedy's calculations.

It is for the voters of New York to make the decision. For our own part, we are tempted to speculate about the implications for the future in the recruitment of "state" representatives in the United States Congress — should Mr. Kennedy bring off his planned coup.

How would the voters of Wisconsin react, for example, if a nationally recognized political figure who happened to live in Missouri or Minnesota or California decided that our political soil was more fertile for his particular program and belief than those of his native jurisdiction? Suppose Sec. of Agriculture Orville Freeman of neighboring Minnesota, who is widely known hereabouts, were denied the senate vacancy that impends in his own state through the possible retirement of Sen. Humphrey and decided to offer his services as senator to the voters of Wisconsin?

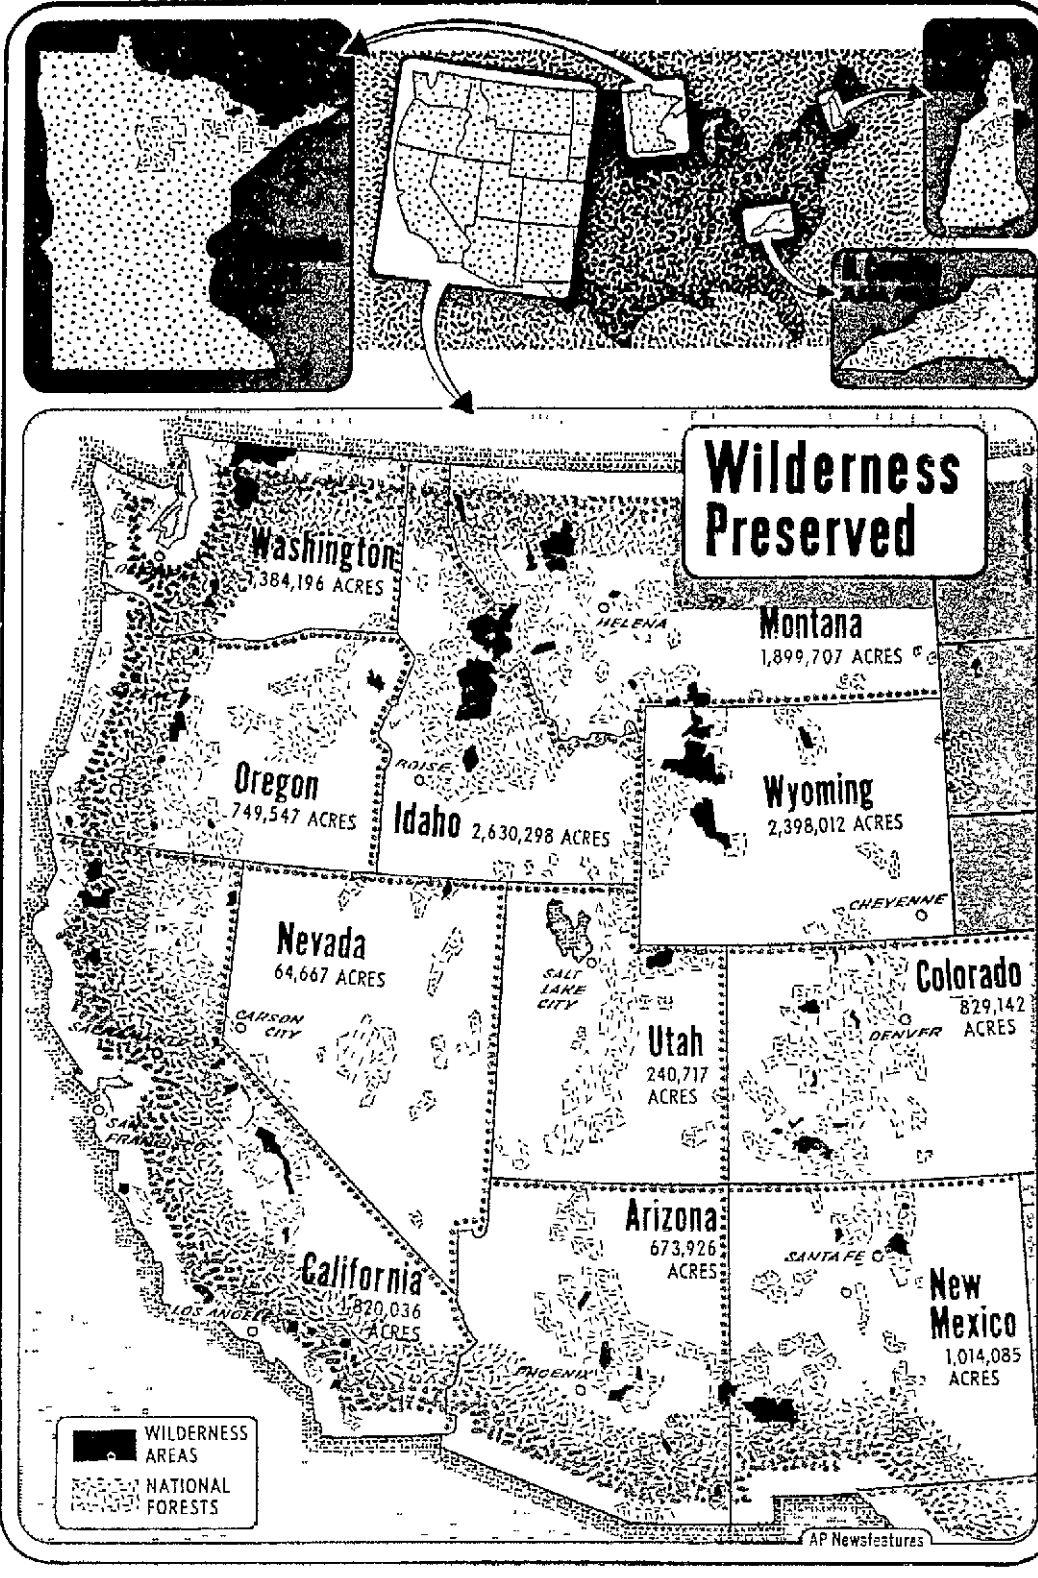

There would be an indignant holler from many of the party professionals here, we may be sure. Yet there are precedents in this part of the country and to some extent in our own state. Sen. William Proxmire, now our own senior representative in the U. S. Senate, was a resident of Illinois who carefully examined the map of the nation for suitable political career opportunities before he settled on Wisconsin as a promising location. Sen. Proxmire was more modest in his aspiration, of course. He ran for the legislature in a comparatively easy Dane County district, before he applied for the governorship. Yet he has survived the challenge of his eligibility on the basis of residence.

In the late 19th century and early decades of this century the new states of the Far West repeatedly sent to Washington men who had barely established their roots, in part because populations were small and eligible young men were comparatively few.

We suspect that the explanation of such non-resident candidates today is to be found in the weakness of the regular political party organizations in some parts of the country. Mayor Wagner, the so-called boss of the New York party, was reluctant to accept Mr. Kennedy. He hesitated and deferred his decision, and evidently endorsed the idea only when it became apparent that his impatient county leaders believed that the man from Boston was preferable to anyone likely to be churned up in the demoralized party machine in New York this year.

Mr. Kennedy's purposes are plain enough. If he becomes senator from New York, he will have begun his march toward a future presidential nomination. Our own Rep Zablocki of Milwaukee in an unguarded moment at Atlantic City last week gave the game away when he gushingly announced his belief that Kennedy would some day occupy the White House. Yet the risks are comparable to the value of the stakes. If Mr. Kennedy should miss, he will be consigned to comparative obscurity forever. Nothing can be plainer than that Mr. Johnson, if he is reelected, will be happy to get along without his services in any capacity.

90 Per Cent of State Executive Budget Goes to Education, Welfare

BY HOWARD J. KOOP

MADISON—The growth and magnitude of the state budget is a subject which has attracted widespread citizen attention and concern in the past decade. During that period the executive budget has increased about 20 per cent every biennium.

It is commonly believed that the administration of state services is grossly inefficient, and that if this inefficiency could only be eliminated, this rapid growth in state spending could be largely curtailed.

Two major misconceptions are evident in these beliefs. The first is that state programs are actually inefficiently carried out.

This simply is not the case. It is true that certain improvements could be made in state government to make it run more smoothly and more efficiently. For example, no large corporation would attempt to conduct its operations with the sprawling maze of departments, bureaus, boards and commissions that make up the state administrative organization. But this is how state government is organized, with over 75 separate state agencies, many of which have little or no legal responsibility to the chief executive — the governor.

EFFICIENT PERFORMANCE

In spite of this and other apparent weaknesses, state government does function with an impressive degree of efficiency.

The second misconception is that the budget could be held down to a small growth factor these must be overcome by the school districts themselves.

But the important thing about the $200 million in school aids that will be paid out during these two years is this — if this money were not collected as state revenue and turned over to the school districts, it would have to be raised by local property taxes. With property taxes already at very high levels, few would argue this would be preferable.

Again, as in higher education, the only other alternative is lowering the quality of local public education programs. And today most thoughtful people believe education needs to be strengthened and made better!

The answer to state government spending and rising budgets, then, is not as simple as increasing the efficiency.

It lies in facing the difficult questions about what kinds and quality of programs we want to provide for our school children and for our young people going to college. Anyone pretending otherwise is only misleading Wisconsin's citizens.

Guest columnist Howard Koop, as commissioner of the state department of administration, is a ranking officer of the state government and is responsible for the management of the state

Midshipman Kurt Wolter arrived in Appleton to spend a month's leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Wolter. The student at the United States Naval Academy had completed a month's summer cruise on the destroyer U.S.S. Claxton.

Mrs. L. C. Lowell was elected president of the Methodist Dorcas Society at New London. Mrs. G. A. Wells, outgoing president, was elected vice president; Mrs. Ralph Mortenson, secretary and Mrs. Fred Rogers, treasurer. The latter two were re-elected.

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Sept. 4, 1954.

An outbreak of sleeping sickness in a mild form had health authorities in the Edinburg, Texas, area planning a massive mosquito eradication program. Director of the Hidalgo County health unit in the lower Rio Grande valley city asked cooperation of citizens in a clean-up campaign of trash, weeds and standing water.

Trophy winners in the ladies tournament at Clintonville Riverside Golf Club were Mrs. Orval Maleug, championship flight winner; Mrs. Glenn Wilka, A flight champion; Mrs. Walter Frisch, B flight champion; Mrs. Walter Gleason, C flight winner, and Mrs. Robert Fox, winner of the Gopher flight.

if only we could eliminate a few clerks, typists and other personnel. To show the fallacy of this argument, let's look at a few facts and figures about the state budget.

Nearly 90 per cent of the entire state executive budget goes for just two broad areas — education and welfare. Education alone comprises 60 per cent. This means that if any substantial savings are to be made, they must be found in these areas, primarily in education.

The current biennial budget is $640 million, an increase of $130 million over the last biennium. Of this increase, $81 million is in education alone. And $33 million of this increase is for higher education, to meet the cost of additional students at the university and colleges and higher faculty salaries.

Any substantial reductions in the budgets for higher education can mean only two things — a lowering of the quality of education now provided at these institutions or turning away large numbers who desire and are eligible to obtain a college education.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Even more significant in the state budget picture are the aids paid to local school districts. In the current biennium the state will pay about 29 per cent of local public school operating costs, up from 20 per cent in just six years. These aids are paid under formulas established by the Legislature. For the current biennium, these aids will increase by $43 million.

Again, these aids are paid for schools who programs are planned and operated at the local level. If there are areas of great inefficiency involved,

Long Controversy Ends

Congress Sets Up Wilderness Preserve Of 9.1 Million Acres

BY JOHN KAMPS

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Not all of America is paved and lined with gas stations, and some of it never will be.

Congress has just put 9.1 million acres of magnificent country into a National Wilderness Preservation System, with the possibility that it will grow to nearly 15 million acres. The land, to be preserved perpetually in a natural state, is in 14 states, mostly in the West.

Like some other conservation legislation of modern times, the Wilderness law came long after it was called for by President Theodore Roosevelt. He told Congress in 1901:

"Some of the forest reserves should afford perpetual protection to the native fauna and flora, safe havens of refuge to our rapidly diminishing wild animals. . . and free camping grounds for the ever increasing numbers of men and women who have learned to find rest, health and recreation in the splendid forests and flower-clad meadows of our mountains.

More than two decades later, in 1924, Congress designated the nation's first area of wilderness preservation, in the Gila national forest of New Mexico.

Since then, 88 wilderness-type areas covering nearly 15 million acres in 14 states have been set aside. They are classified as wilderness, wild, primitive and canoe areas.

A move to blanket these areas into a single National Wilderness Preservation System by act of Congress was started by conservationists who feared federal officials might be pressured into declassifying them.

This could be done "at the stroke of a bureaucrat's pen," said one wilderness advocate. The Wilderness law, approved last month after eight years of study and controversy, states this need for preservation of the high country:

" . . . it is hereby declared to be the policy of the Congress to secure for the American people of present and future generations the benefits of an enduring resource of wilderness. . . to assure that an increasing population, accompanied by expanding settlement and growing mechanization, does not occupy and modify all areas within the United States. . . leaving no lands designated for preservation and protection in their natural condition."

As first offered, wilderness legislation provoked strong and prolonged opposition.

Many protests came from persons using the national forests for grazing, mineral and petroleum prospecting, mining and lumbering. They said their rights were in jeopardy and that the economy of the west depended upon the development of resources in the lands.

As finally passed, the law permits some mining and certain other activities deemed compatible with the wilderness concept. It places 9.1 million acres in the system immediately, and provides that all or part of an additional 5.5 million acres presently under administrative designation as primitive areas may be added to the system by act of Congress.

At least one of the areas is unique. This is the Boundary Waters Canoe Area of 866,673 acres in Minnesota, on the Canadian border. It adjoins the Quetico Provincial Park in Canada and creates a vast expanse of wilderness in which the canoeist can travel for weeks without retracing his route. All the areas provide excellent camping, fishing and hunting and unparalleled, unspoiled scenery.

Inside stuff: The real reason LBJ picked Hubert Horatio Humphrey was just sympathy for the underprivileged—doing something nice for a poor chap who's gone through life with only one initial.

Humphrey used to have a reputation as a spendthrift. Not now. Under searching questioning, he assured Mr. Johnson that he has turned off the neon sign on the drug store.

The President is supporting Bobby Kennedy for Senator from New York. Mr. J. was once an immigrant boy himself, coming to this country from Texas with nothing but a few old, worn-out votes.

Bobby lives in Virginia, votes in Massachusetts, runs in New York — LBJ wouldn't let him be vice president, so he could represent all the people, but in his own small way he's doing pretty well.

White House says polls show the backlash will be more than offset by the front lash. They don't mention the eyelash — which is what you lose by when the polls are wrong.

'... Small World, Ain't It ... ?'

The League of Women Voters of Neenah-Menasha opened its season with a new member luncheon Friday afternoon at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church in Neenah. Speakers were the two candidates for assemblyman from the third district of Winnebago County who will oppose each other in the November election. Left to right are David Martin, Neenah, Republican incumbent; Rufin Skiba, Neenah, his Democratic opponent for the second straight election, and Mrs. Lewis Emery, membership chairman. ## Candidates Agree on Need for County Board Reorganization

Disagree on Joint Candidacy for Top State Officials in Appearance at LWV Luncheon

NEENAH — Agreement on the need for a realistic financing program for state building needs, 4-year terms for the governor and lieutenant governor, and the need for changes correcting the existing inequities in county board representation was expressed by a Republican and a Democrat speaking to the League of Women Voters Friday at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church.

The speakers were David O. Martin, incumbent Republican assemblyman from the third district of Winnebago County, and Rufin J. Skiba, Democratic candidate for that post. They spoke at the opening luncheon meeting of the year for the LWV at which new members were guests. Both are without opposition in Tuesday's primary election and will face each other in the November finals as they did two years ago.

Differences

They did not agree on proposals to change the composition of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education or on a joint candidacy for governor and lieutenant governor.

In interests in special legislation Skiba said he was opposed to the sales tax and any kind of "Right to Work" legislation. He favored legislation to reduce the number of state agencies and to protect our natural resources.

Martin indicated that he favored a change in legislative sessions from biennial to annual, development of a system of state-wide post high school area technical schools, simplification of our state income tax filing, an effective state-wide program to control Dutch Elm disease and repeal of the oleomargarine tax.

Both of the candidates felt that there was need for county board reorganization to provide more equal representation. Skiba urged that no change be made merely for the sake of change. Martin proposed a set-up limiting the size of county boards by population and creation of county supervising districts based on population apportionment.

Martin felt that the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education should have more public members and fewer institutional board members. Skiba opposed any such change. Both called for a state debt limit and financing buildings needs through sound bonding.

Four-Year Terms

Martin pointed out it is difficult for a governor to develop a program for the state in two years when much of the time is spent campaigning for the next election. Both favored four-year terms. Skiba believes in a joint candidacy for the governor and lieutenant governor. Martin feels the primary responsibility of the lieutenant governor is to preside over the state senate and is therefore a legislative function rather than an administrative one, therefore he feels the two offices should not have a joint candidacy.

John Race Claims Reynolds' Backing

FOND DU LAC — Sixth District Democratic Candidate John Race today claimed the endorsement of Gov. John Reynolds at a recent dinner of the Committee on Political Education (COPE) of the AFL-CIO in Menasha.

"The governor's endorsement," said Race, "is the final push that will guarantee my primary victory."

"As the governor well knows," Race said, "the Sixth District has been held hostage by a do-nothing congressman for 14 years."

Race is opposed by Edward K. Weber, Oshkosh, in the Tuesday primary election.

Gasoline Price War Comes to End

Friday Marks Close Of Two-Month Battle In Neenah-Menasha

MENASHA — A gasoline price war which has raged in the Twin Cities for close to two months ended abruptly shortly after noon Friday.

The end came less than 24 hours after several dealers slashed prices to a record low for the year, 24.9 cents per gallon.

Friday afternoon prices slowly climbed to normal at most service stations. Normal prices are 31.9 cents for cutrate regular gasoline and 33.9 cents for premium regular gasoline.

The war followed what has become a normal pattern of ending when the 24.9 cent mark is reached. The mark is the cutoff between profit and loss in gasoline sales.

Second Price War

Few stations followed example in the latest price cut which station operators say was initiated by cutrate dealers. Premium dealers blame cutrate dealers for the war in the first place. Twin City dealers blame Appleton for the price war.

It was the second time stations have initiated a price war this year. It probably will be the last since wars usually come during the summer and rarely in the winter.

The latest battle began in late June following a two-month quiet period in which prices remained at normal levels. Until Wednesday prices remained at 25.9 and 26.9 cents for cutrates and 28.9 for premium gasolines.

Since giving birth to 32 6-inch baby snakes Thursday, Snooper has been renamed Cynthia. Above Mark, who is a fifth grader at Taft School this year, holds 26-inch Cynthia while Debbie Krenger, a third grader, holds one of the babies. With 32 babies there are enough so that each youngster in the class of 29 can have one, with a few left over. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Appleton Employee Pay Plan Defended, Criticized for WERB

Factfinder to Make Suggestion On Wage Income Stalemate

The City of Appleton's merit pay system was criticized and defended Friday, the closing day of the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board factfinding hearing at the city hall.

Atty. Philip Marshall of Milwaukee, the WERB - appointed factfinder, adjourned the two-day hearing in the late afternoon and indicated he would make his recommendations soon.

The city and Teamsters Local 563 entered factfinding after they exhausted all efforts to arrive at an agreement over a period of several months on a 1964 contract.

Resolved Issues
Thursday city and union representatives negotiated prior to the start of the hearing and resolved several issues.

However, the city and union could not arrive at agreement on wages. Local 563 had requested a 10-cent an hour hike for all union employees in the department of public works.

The council's personnel committee denied the request, its action later upheld by the common council.

Witnesses testifying for the city and union Friday were at odds on whether a general pay hike was in order. The city contended municipal employees were being paid a fair and adequate wage.

They also cited several city employees received merit raises this year, while all were granted an increase in fringe benefits.

Criticize Pay Plan

Union representatives said the City of Appleton was in sound financial condition and its economy could afford a general pay increase for municipal employees. They criticized the Bureau of Personnel pay plan as carried out by the city's personnel committee.

City representatives said the personnel committee was first formed in 1961 and since then has been attempting to preserve the merit system pay plan. They said no general wage increase was given city employees in 1964 because the Bureau of Personnel had been requested to make a complete review of the program as it presently exists.

It was indicated the bureau's report would probably not be available until after the first of the year.

Pressed Claim

The union pressed its claim the city had not bargained in good faith, and had granted only certain employees so-called merit increases without bargaining with the union.

Local 563 made its first formal demand on the city to enter into collective bargaining on a 1964 contract in October of 1963, according to testimony.

The record showed the city granted general wage increases, ranging from 5 to 11 cents per hour, from 1961 - 63. There also was testimony that in 1962 and 1963 merit raises were also given to some employees in addition.

The union noted the board of education granted its employees a general 3 per cent wage increase, and said the cost of living had increased.

Fringe Benefits

City representatives countered that instead of across-the-board pay boosts, it was decided to improve the fringe benefits received by municipal employees.

There was testimony that the common council, at the request of the personnel committee, budgeted $70,000 to be at its disposal in 1964. About half the amount was used for the fringe benefits and merit raises, leaving a balance of more than $30,000 not expended to date.

The union also wants any wage increase that might be agreed to in 1964 to be retroactive.

A request that the city agree to abide by the recommendations of the factfinder was turned down by the Appleton representatives. It had been proposed by the union's attorney, Gerald Goldberg of Milwaukee.

Admonishes Attorney

At times during the Friday afternoon proceedings, Marshall admonished Goldberg for attempting to "badger witnesses". He was also criticized for the manner in which he attempted to cross-examine.

Spending the most time testifying were Robert Schlieve, secretary-treasurer for Local 563; Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings, personnel committee secretary, and Public Works Director Robert W. Bues.

There was considerable technical testimony on wage rates. After studying testimony, Marshall will recommend whether or not the employees should receive a wage increase this year.

Schools Stress Eye Safety Plan

Kaukauna Industrial Arts Departments Use Special Glasses

KAUKAUNA — An eye safety program has been started in the Vocational and High School industrial arts department as a result of interest shown last year by the Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Company, Kaukauna division.

Last year Giddings and Lewis donated a number of safety glasses to the Vocational School for shop use. Prompted by this industrial interest, the board decided to require each student to have his own pair of approved safety glasses. Purpose of the policy, according to school officials, include sanitation, ready-availability and uniformity of eye protection at all times, appraising students of their responsibility for their own safety.

School Provides Glasses
The school, if desired, will provide an exclusive pair of approved safety glasses for each individual for a $3 fee. If glasses are returned in good condition upon completion of the course, a refund is given. The student has the option of retaining the glasses.

"Shop safety has always been a major concern of industrial arts and vocational teachers with eye protection as one of the more important aspects of the program," School Director Dominic Bordini said. "Although no safety device is absolutely foolproof, the Vocational School has taken a giant step toward reducing the hazards to a minimum," he added.

Don't Forget Dimes, Nickels for Meters On Election Day

Monday is a holiday for parking meters, but Tuesday isn't, is the reminder from Appleton police.

Monday — Labor Day — is one of six "free" days in the year for Appleton motorists who use the parking meters in the downtown area. No nickels or dimes are needed.

Tuesday — election day — has lost its "holiday" status due to a policy interpretation last year.

Firemen Called to Extinguish Car Fire

KAUKAUNA — Firemen were called at 7 a.m. Friday to extinguish a fire in the motor of a car owned by John Conrad, 813 Lawe St., Kaukauna.

The motor flooded, backfired and ignited. Firemen used dry powder to extinguish the blaze.

The new school year also will bring an eight - period class schedule, which will provide flexibility in scheduling to help fit the record enrollment into a school originally designed for a capacity of 1,500 students.

Berner will explain the new schedule as part of the opening assembly in the school gymnasium.

A full schedule will be operated the first day, with dismissal of school at 3:43 p.m. The cafeteria will be open during the three lunch periods and food will be served.

More Teaching Periods
The eight - period schedule will add 11 minutes to the total school day, but will provide for two additional teaching periods through a staggered lunch hour and elimination of the home room period. Classes will start at 7:50 a.m. instead of 8:03 a.m., and end at 3:43 p.m., two minutes earlier than last year.

Printed cards will be available listing class times under the new schedule. Each period is 55 minutes long, with the exception of the second period, which will have five additional minutes to be used for administrative announcements formerly given during the home room period. There will be a four-minute break between periods.

The three lunch periods will be during the fourth, fifth and sixth hours, from 10:52 a.m. to 1:45 p.m.

Each student's schedule will be tailored to his individual needs, with the help of the guidance department, and all schedules will vary, Berner said.

Seven Periods
Each student will have only seven scheduled periods. Some will be free during the first or eighth periods, and will be permitted to arrive at 8:49 a.m. or leave at 2:44 p.m. Those with free periods during the day must stay in the school.

Most students take four academic classes, although some take five. Rounding out their schedules will be physical education, study hall and the lunch period. Special provisions will be made for those with free periods during the day.

The eight - period schedule provides for maximum utilization of space in the crowded school, while keeping class sizes limited to 30 students, Berner said.

The second, third and seventh periods will be the only ones when all students will be in the school, he pointed out, because some will be free during the first and eighth periods and lunch periods are scheduled during the fourth through sixth periods. Because of this there will not be a tremendous load all day on study hall space, he said. Parts of the auditorium and available classrooms will be used as study halls, in addition to the study hall itself.

Power Firm Drops Rate for Heating

Sentencing Of Woman Postponed

Sentencing of Mrs. Jo Ann Stickney, 32, who fired her court - appointed attorney after he entered a plea of guilty to two counts of forgery Wednesday, was held over until Tuesday. She was scheduled to be sentenced in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday.

Mrs. Stickney petitioned the court soon after her court - appointed attorney, Joseph Van Susteren, entered pleas of guilty to the forgery counts. Mrs. Stickney asked her new attorney, Allan Cain, change the pleas to innocent. Cain was hired by "friends and relatives" of Mrs. Stickney.

After Van Susteren pleaded guilty for Mrs. Stickney, County Judge Gustave Keller ordered Mrs. Stickney held for sentencing until Friday. On Friday he held the action over until after Mrs. Stickney's petition for a new lawyer is acted upon Tuesday afternoon. She is being held in the Outagamie County jail without bond.

Appleton police have charged the woman with forging a name on a $20 check and using a false name to purchase a $12.98 dress at a department store. She has been held in the county jail since June 26.

Wisconsin-Michigan Move Gets PSC Approval; Will Cut Cost Of Electricity Used in Homes

A new rate which will reduce the cost of electricity for home or water heating was announced today by Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

The new rate was approved Friday by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission. The same rate is being filed with the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The new rate is expected to cut the cost of heating a home electrically by 20 per cent. About 100 home owners who presently heat their homes electrically are expected to gain from this new rate initially.

"However," J. H. McLean, a spokesman for the company, said, "We expect many persons planning new homes or apartments may take advantage of the incentives under this new rate."

Save $45

McLean cited a typical home owner in Appleton with a 1,000-square foot house who has been paying $220 a year to heat it electrically. Under the new rate, the cost would be reduced to $175, a savings of $45. The home owner who qualifies under the new rate would get similar savings for other uses of electricity such as air conditioning.

The rate also makes available quick-recovery water heating. The rate features 24-hour heating with high-recovery heating elements, assuring the home owner an unlimited supply of hot water.

About 50 per cent of the 20,000 residential customers who now use electricity for water heating also will realize savings in electric costs under the new rate. Average savings are estimated at about $5.60 per year per home owner.

Presently, home owners who use electricity for water heating are served under two rates, and electricity is measured through two meters. Electricity under the water heating rate is offered for an "off-peak" period of sixteen hours per day at a lower cost than the regular residential rate.

Single Rate

Under the optional rate approved Friday, all uses of electricity will be combined under a single rate. Time restrictions will be removed from the water heating meter and elements will operate whenever thermostats call for heat. Quick-recovery water heaters with high-speed heating elements may be installed.

Those home owners who will achieve savings under the new rate will be notified and transferred automatically. However, to determine which home owners will save money under the new rate, each customer's account will have to be analyzed. McLean said although detailed analyses will be done by computers, the changeover will take several months.

Cupid Tobi Sparks 'Just a Bit of News'

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

One day this week a small bit of news reached the desk of our news editor and he forwarded it to me to write it into acceptable form for presentation to our readers.

"This item," he wrote, "is for you." The news was in the form of a tip that Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hoelzel of 1041 Gillingham Road, Neenah, are preparing to depart on a four-weeks visit to Neheim-Husten, West Germany.

That, of course, would be the full extent of the news — except that I know more about it than our bustling news editor, and I even know more about the background of the little story than Ray Hoelzel. Furthermore, today I tell all:

House I met Ray Hoelzel in 1960 when he accompanied me on the European journey which was sponsored by the Post-Crescent and which was, as you may remember, a very successful tour. We all had a fine time and we have all — since then — become fast friends and have had many pleasant meetings together.

One day while a member of the tour moving into the beautiful seaside city of Nordwijk, Holland, the hotel manager had bad news for me. There had been a mix-up in our hotel reservations and we would not all be able to remain together at his hotel. He had, however, arranged that the few members of the tour that he could not accommodate could stay at another hotel not far away.

I was abliged to select members of the tour who would have to be divided from us. I chose Ray Hoelzel because he was a good sport and because I believed he would not be too upset by the separation. I was right in my judgment. Ray accepted without enthusiasm, but he did not complain.

Next morning when I had a chance to chat with him, I asked him how he liked the other hotel.

"Not bad," he said. "I met some nice people." Although he did not then tell me so one of the nice people he had met was a pretty German girl, Miss Roselotte Block. We will hear more about her.

After our return to the United States, I saw Ray occasionally. He talked casually about heading back to Europe, but I counted it only his enthusiasm for that interesting country. One day Ray came to my house for a visit. While he was there I introduced him to Tobi.

Tobi is a little man. A figure of a man, that is. He is carved out of a dark-stained native mahogany wood. He has large mother-of-pearl eyes and the carving is a little crude, but it was done by a native of Tobi Island, a wee thing in the Micronesian chain.

Tobi was given to me long ago, before ever I had a thought of marrying ANYBODY. Because he is primitively attractive, I kept him for these many years.

Tobi has a purpose in life. The natives consider him to be a symbol of the wedding. Ray studied him with casual interest, but I knew from experience that Tobi would do the work he is made for.

Over more than twenty-five years, I have shown Tobi to a number of friends. And over these same 25 years Tobi's mystic magic has worked. Every friend who ever handled Tobi (I have kept track) soon married and had children. Me, too.

One day in 1962, Ray dropped into the house for a visit. "I'm going to Europe," he told me.

I was surprised because I thought that he had been doing wishful thinking.

"What are you going to do there?" I asked.

"Get married."

"To who, for Pete's sake?"

"Well," he said slowly, "you remember when I stayed in that other hotel in Holland?"

"Yes."

"Remember I told you I had met some nice people?"

"Yes."

"Well . . ." he said.

In May of 1962, Ray Hoelzel and Miss Roselotte Block were married at Dusseldorf. In due time they returned to the United States where Ray again took up his work-a-day duties at the Engraving Plant of Marathon Division of American Can Company.

In due time also, Tobi struck again. Little Henry, now almost a year old, was born Oct. 6.

So, please, Mr. News Editor, I will simply say that Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hoelzel of Neenah will spend four weeks at Neheim-Husten, West Germany, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Erich Block.

Then, if I may, I'd add that they'll be back home Oct. 4, two days before little Henry's first birthday, and that about that time I've got a small birthday present for Henry — a carved figure.

Land Donation Allows Village To Move Street

Traffic Problem Is Eliminated in Combined Locks

COMBINED LOCKS — Donation of two acres of land to the village by the Combined Locks Paper Co. has made possible the relocation of Park Street and elimination of a traffic problem.

Eliminated was a steep grade which came up from the village garage and intersected with Prospect Street. Earthmoving equipment was moved in after the land was donated, hills were leveled and valleys filled to make possible the building of the road.

Work started in spring and, after a waiting period to permit compaction of the moved soil, work began on the road itself. Cost of relocation and building the road was $10,500. A sidewalk adjacent to the new road was put in by village crews.

Plans call for the road to be blacktopped, but a few years are to be allowed for the road to settle. As present the gravelled road intersects with Prospect Avenue with a minimum of grade and motorists have a clear view of traffic from both directions.

Formerly the view to the left of the intersection was partially obscured. The new street also permits children from new areas in the village to reach schools more readily.

Victim of Knife Fight Hospitalized

MENASHA — Jules Klapps, 22, 105 Manitowoc St., was reported in satisfactory condition at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital this morning where he was taken at 2:58 a.m. suffering from multiple cuts and abrasions apparently inflicted in a knife fight Friday night.

Klapps was discovered unconscious in his room by police and Neenah fire department ambulance attendants. Blood stains were found throughout the apartment. Police theorize Klapps was involved in a knife fight. No other person was found, however.

Several broken bottles and a knife were found near Klapps. Klapps apparently called for the ambulance himself.
